About the Minor:
The Human Rights Minor provides students with an interdisciplinary curriculum that engages them in contemporary social problems, international relations or environmental crises. Upon successful completion of the Human Rights Minor, students will develop a deeper understanding of the impact of social contemporary world events and the impact of education on society.

Steps to Complete the Minor
1. Declare the Minor: Submit “Request for Addition/Change of Major/Minor” form (on SJSU Registrar’s website) with any required documents to a department advisor.
2. Take the Classes: Choose courses as specified by the “Human Rights Minor Form” (on Dept. website) and log course completions on form.
3. Apply for Graduation: When applying for graduation, submit a completed “Justice Studies Minor Form” to a department advisor.

Human Rights Program:
In order to graduate with Human Rights Minor, students are required to complete 15 units, comprised of one required course and five elective courses selected from five disciplinary areas: Perspectives in Law; Contemporary Issues in Law and Justice; Legal History; Law and Ethics; Law and Courts. In order to ensure a broad and interdisciplinary education, students must take one course from a separate department for each of the five areas.

About the Department
Justice Studies is an interdisciplinary area of inquiry that focuses on interrelated criminal and social justice concepts from the lens of humanities, law, and behavioral, social, and natural sciences.

The Department offers 2 MS degree programs, 2 “justice studies” majors, 2 “forensic science” majors, 4 minors, and 1 certificate program.

The Department of Justice Studies at San José State University organizes its curricula around 5 academic pillars:

- Criminal Justice Studies
- Criminology
- Forensic Science
- Legal Studies
- Human Rights

Our Mission
The Department of Justice Studies embraces an interdisciplinary approach to engage students in critical analysis of justice systems in practice, policy, and research. We equip students to be leaders, professionals, and agents of change in justice-related institutions and in diverse local and global communities.

Our Values
Our foremost desire is to foster just societies. We value intellectual curiosity, lifelong learning, honesty, fairness, and ethical consideration of our actions. We embrace diversity, inclusion, civility, and sustainable practices as foundations for strong communities. We commit ourselves to promoting global understanding and respect for cultural differences. We honor our relationships with students, colleagues, alumni, and community partners who work with us to achieve our mission.
